ACADEMIC SUPPORT OPTIONS

---

Museums can be transformative teaching spaces.

The Haffenreffer Museum of Anthropology welcomes instructors and students to engage with the following options for teaching and learning with the Museum this semester.

SUMMER 2021 | ACADEMIC SUPPORT OPTIONS

» TAKE ADVANTAGE OF VIRTUAL RESOURCES

The Haffenreffer Museum of Anthropology welcomes instructors and students to engage with the following options for teaching and learning with the Museum this semester.

- View the Transient Matter exhibition online. Use the accompanying discussion guide to deepen class conversations and prompt reflection.
- Explore the Haffenreffer Museum collection via the Online Catalogue.
- View past talks with scholars, artists, and other noted guests.
- Read Museum publications, including past exhibition catalogues.

» REQUEST A VIRTUAL CULTURE LAB SESSION

Museum staff can facilitate virtual CultureLab sessions for your students using objects featured in the Online Catalogue. Staff will work with instructors to support coursework with dynamic, object-based learning opportunities for classes via Zoom, including creating highlight groups (examples available on the online catalogue) specifically for your students.

Submit a virtual CultureLab session request at least two weeks in advance of your desired date. Instructors can select from a list of topics or propose specific objects from the Online Catalogue.

» DIDN'T FIND WHAT YOU WERE LOOKING FOR?

The Museum is committed to working individually with Brown University instructors to develop teaching and learning opportunities. To propose or request a consultation meeting, please email HaffenrefferMuseum@brown.edu with a copy of your syllabus.
